Next time you’re eating at a restaurant, ask the table next to you if they would be willing to let you taste something that you wanted to try; offer something you’ve ordered.

Describe something you taught someone at school.

Find the person who has worked for the same company the longest in your neighborhood. Visit the person with one small gift.

Stand at a bus shelter and ask the people waiting why bus routes are numbered in the way that they are.

Find an item of food that you’ve never tasted before in the store closest to where you live. Ask who buys it at the store.

Describe something you learned outside of school.